What to Expect - Weddings

After reading this, if you have any further questions, please feel free to contact me.

Before the Big Day

The relationship between yourselves and me, as the photographer, is an important one, and I always like to get to know you a little better before working together. If you've made a booking with me, or even if you're just thinking of doing so, I always like to have an initial chat via Skype, FaceTime or simply a quick phone call.

A few weeks before the big day, I'll ask you to complete a short questionnaire. This will help me to understand what you expect from the day and what your photo priorities will be.

On the Day

I always arrive at least thirty minutes before the agreed time; whether I've shot at your chosen location before or not, I still like to walk around and visualise the shots for the day. I pride myself on using my camera to tell the full story of your day; I want to make you both feel as relaxed as possible and not intrude on those romantic and private moments. My style of photography allows this because I love taking natural, candid shots, where you can forget I'm there and just get on with enjoying your special day.

After Your Wedding

Now that you're happily married, probably on your honeymoon and walking off into the sunset, I know that you're going to be very excited to see all your beautiful images. I'll go through the images from your day and select the cream of the crop. I'm not one of these photographers who'll limit the number of edited shots I give you, or hold photos to ransom. If it's a great photo, I'll always edit it; you deserve them all! But on the other hand, I won't promise thousands of images just to keep the numbers up; after all, the photos are also a representation of me and I want you, as the client, to be impressed with every single one!

Once I have the 'final cut' selected, I'll fully edit all of these photos. I'll share a few preview shots with you within one week of your wedding day, as I know it's nice to have a few to share immediately with friends and family. In my editing, I'll provide a balance of warm, colourful photos and turn some into black and white shots if I feel they are better suited to that style.

Your edited images will be ready within six weeks or sooner. Once they're completed, I'll send you an email with a link to your own private online gallery where you can easily download all your photos.

If you wish to purchase one of my stunning, fully customisable photo albums, or if you'd like me to have certain pictures printed for you, I offer this as an additional service. The choice is yours! If the answer is "Yes please," then it's simple. You can either use the online gallery I'll send you to help select and upload your favourites, or simply call/Skype me to discuss which ones would be better suited for printing. Please visit my Packages page for rates.

If you decide to get your images printed yourself, there are a few things to keep in mind. Firstly, your pictures are all sized to be 4x6", which is the standard ratio at which my camera captures images. If you want to increase the size, be careful of cropping the photo as you'll be altering the ratio of the image. Secondly, if you're going to get your images printed elsewhere, make sure you tell them NOT to "autocorrect", as this will change the colour and style of the images and erase all my editing.
